In Tribute To Gilbert Greenberg

It is difficult to put into words the loss we all feel by the sudden passing of Gilbert Greenberg for he was truly one of the giants who made this Jewish Community what it is today. It was my privilege in the past few years to have worked closely with him in administering the affairs of the Vaad. Gilbert was our President for two years from 1977 to 1979. His loss will be a personal one, for he acted as my mentor and guide.

Gilbert's deep feelings for our people, both in Israel and locally, knew no bounds. If there was a worthy Jewish cause that needed leadership and support, he was there with both. But he did not limit himself to Jewish endeavour, he was a proud Canadian who felt he lived in the finest country in the world.

Like most of us, the Greenberg clan came from humble beginnings and Gilbert never forgot that fact. The success he achieved in business in no way diminished his empathy for people nor his concern for the less fortunate among us.

In many ways, our friend Gilbert was ahead of his time. He was not content with the status quo in Jewish life. It had to be improved and he would leave no stone unturned to achieve this end. It is no secret that Gilbert Greenberg loved the people and the State of Israel. This love, however, did not blind him to some of the shortcomings of that complex society. He was quick to strip away the veneer and was prepared to attack the root causes no matter who was involved. This independent spirit did not always ingratiate him in the eyes of some leaders of Canadian Jewry, but some of these same people have since come around and the "radical" from Ottawa was being listened to with new respect. Gilbert may not have said things as diplomatically as some would have liked, but many of the practices he advanced have either been instituted by them or are in the works.

It was largely through his efforts that the Ottawa Jewish Community rose to the challenge of supporting Israel in her hours of greatest need in May and June, 1967 and in the fall of 1973. On those occasions, through his leadership and example, our community answered the call, in a way in which no one except Gilbert, dreamed possible. He dreamt the impossible dream and then made it happen. That spirit and vision is one which few possess and even fewer use as constructively as did he.

Gilbert devoted many years to the upgrading of Jewish education in Ottawa. It was fundamental to his thinking that every Jewish child in Ottawa should get a basic Jewish education. He served for a number of years on the Talmud Torah Board and to a large extent, it was his drive that helped build Hillel Academy into the sound institution it is today.

His latest vision was that of a single school building which could accommodate all of our educational needs in a modern first-class structure. Ever striving for better, he wanted to amalgamate the Central and West End branches of Hillel Academy, get the best teachers possible, update facilities and make them equal to the challenge of the 80's. On the same complex would also rise a new Community Centre or Satellite Youth Centre with all of the amenities needed to keep the community together in a meaningful way. The legacy he leaves us is the inspiration to look towards the future, buoyed by his vision and optimism, to plan for and build the New Community Complex. We cannot and will not let that vision disappear, for his spirit will surely guide us to its successful conclusion.

His concern for the young did not end with their graduation from the primary sources of education. The establishment of a successful Jewish Students Union in recent years, with full-time direction, was largely due to his motivation. His concern for the well-being of Jewish boys and girls on the university campuses in Ottawa led to the engagement of a full-time co-ordinator and a program budget which is beginning to make sense.

Gilbert's compassion was not restricted to the young. He was a principal mover in the creation of our Home for the Aged, Hillel Lodge. Only recently we had a discussion on where the Lodge was going and some of the problems it is facing as its residents grow older and the nature of the institution changes. Gilbert was concerned with the Lodge's mounting deficit and was about to become involved in an attempt to correct that problem.

There was no aspect of Jewish life in Ottawa that was not affected by Gilbert Greenberg for he was profoundly interested in them all. Among his most lasting achievements was the Ottawa Jewish Community Endowment and Bequest Foundation. He was its first President and deserves much of the credit for launching it on its successful path.

The news of his untimely death spread throughout Canada and indeed the entire Jewish world. On Tuesday, I attended a meeting of the Canadian Jewish Congress in Toronto and at that time, expressions of sympathy were extended to our community over the severe loss we had sustained.

Gilbert could not say no to any worthy cause. His generosity was boundless and his leadership lifted the Ottawa community to the pinnacle of fund-raising success, making it among the best in North America. But donating money was insufficient for Gilbert Greenberg.

Gilbert Greenberg

July 24, 1923 — September 22, 1980

That was too easy. He was among those few who were willing to back up their money with work. He was involved. He made it his business to be informed and to participate. The time he devoted to Jewish life cannot be measured in dollars — it can only be categorized as "leadership" in the truest sense of the word.

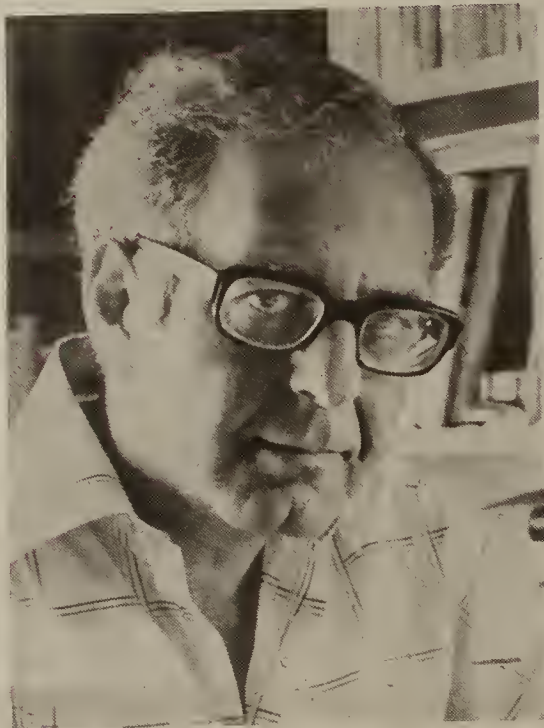

To his dear wife Bess, his loving children, Michael, Kenneth, Marion, Alan, Roger and Robert, his sisters, Jennie and Grace and his brothers, Irving and Lorry, I express the entire Jewish Community's heartfelt sympathy. We all loved Gilbert and if it is of any comfort to them, the Ottawa Jewish Community is indeed a better place because of him.

I shall miss him deeply, for Gilbert was my friend. I dread the next meeting of the Executive Committee of the Vaad for there will be an empty chair to my right — a chair that was rarely empty and one from which I always had sound advice. Minto Construction has a motto as "Canada's Most Honoured Builder". Ottawa Jewry was honoured to have Gilbert Greenberg as one of its most distinguished citizens. We shall truly miss him. May his memory live forever.

Parley

NEW YORK, NY — Prime Minister Menachem Begin of Israel will address over 2,500 top leaders of North American Jewish Federations on Thursday, November 13, at the Council of Jewish Federations' General Assembly in Detroit.

Speaking at a major plenary session, Begin will provide delegates with his views on "Israel-Diaspora Relations" — the bond between American Jewry, the State of Israel and its people.

The General Assembly, Nov. 12-16, will bring together leadership from CJF's 200 constituent Federations in the United States and Canada, representing over 90% of North American Jewry. The Assembly is the largest single gathering held each year of North American Jewish leadership. Delegates will participate in sessions covering every major aspect of concern to the organized Jewish community.

Additional major sessions will be devoted to the implications of the results of the U.S. Presidential elections, strengthening the Jewish family through community support systems and programs, "The Struggle for Soviet Jewry," "Serving the Aging in the 1980's," and "The Quest for Peace in the Middle East."

The Council of Jewish Federations is the association of 200 Federations, Welfare Funds and Community Councils which serve nearly 800 communities and embrace over 95 per cent of the Jewish population of the United States and Canada. Established in 1932, the Council serves as a national instrument to strengthen the work and impact of Jewish Federations through leadership in developing programs to meet the changing needs of the Jewish community; through the exchange of successful experiences to assure the most effective community services; through establishing guidelines for fund raising and operation; and through joint national planning and action on common purposes dealing with local, regional, national and international needs.

They Are Not Forgotten

Soviet Jewry
Rally Oct. 19

The appointment of Rabbi Basil Herring and Ruth Berger as Co-Chairmen of the Ottawa Soviet Jewry Committee has been announced by Sol Shinder, President of the Jewish Community Council.

Mr. Shinder expressed his appreciation to the new appointees for accepting this important responsibility. "Both are totally committed to the cause of Soviet Jewry," he said "and I am confident that significant new initiatives will be taken in the coming year as a result of their leadership."

Mrs. Berger has served as Chairman of the Soviet Jewry Group of 35, the women's arm of the movement which has been extremely effective in recent years. She has a flair for public relations and her contacts with the media have been most helpful.

Rabbi Herring became active in the work of Soviet Jewry directly he came to Ottawa and has participated in a number of its activities. A strong advocate of human rights, he has spoken out forthrightly from the pulpit and in rallies before the Soviet Embassy.

Under the new structure, the two committees have been merged into one and they will function as such during the coming year. The committee has been strengthened and an energetic program has been developed. The first of these is the Annual Simchat Torah Rally to be held on Sunday, October 5 at 2:00 p.m. The group is meeting at Strathcona Park and marching to the Soviet Embassy together. A large turnout is expected.

In preparation for that Rally, Mrs. Berger and Rabbi Herring released the following statement:

"In a phone conversation from Canada to Moscow earlier this week, Maria Slepak, wife of imprisoned Russian Jewish scientist Vladimir Slepak, wept as she described conditions under which her husband lives, his isolation and his deteriorating health. Then she said 'what sustains us is the knowledge that our friends in Canada and the West have not forgotten us. Without this, we could not go on.'"

Elie Wiesel once called the Jews of Russia "the Jews of Silence" but often it seems that we in the West are the silent ones. Today, with Jewish emigration at its lowest point in ten years and with continuing harassment and imprisonment of Jews in the Soviet Union, we have a moral obligation to stand with our Russian brethren.

On Simchat Torah, thousands of Jews in Moscow and Leningrad will dance in the streets in celebration of their Jewishness; on Simchat Torah, we, the Jews of Ottawa, will be dancing with them.

Please be at the Soviet Embassy at 2:00 p.m. on October 5 for our Annual Rally. Your presence does make a difference."

Ambassador's Ball

The Ottawa Israel Bond Organization will sponsor an Ambassador's Ball to climax the 1980 State of Israel Bond Campaign. A committee, headed by Mrs. Myrna Potechin, Chairman of the Bond Organization's Women's Division has been meeting to develop plans for the Ambassador's Ball and to schedule a date.

The Israel Bond Ambassador's Ball was discontinued in 1971 and the Board of Directors of the Bond Organization decided to reinstitute the Ambassador's Ball which was always one of the most successful social functions in the community.

Plans for the Ambassador's Ball and the date will be announced within the near future.

Israeli Brunch

The National Council of Jewish Women will once again be holding its annual Israeli Brunch, on Tuesday, October 21, 1980, at the home of Ruth Miller, 3671 Revelstoke Drive. This brunch always features mid-eastern delicacies to delight your palate, and promises, as always, to be a spectacular gourmet affair. The monies raised go toward the Israeli Family Counselling Services. For further information please contact the chairwoman, Daphne Arron at 829-4738.

Thirty Years of Israel Bonds

A Bond's-Eye View

of Israel's Economic Achievements

The thirty-year history of the Israel Bond Organization closely parallels the development of the State of Israel. Since its historic launching in 1950, the organization has been the principal source of investment dollars to aid the development of the nation's economic infrastructure. Through Israel Bonds and other financial instruments, the Israel Bond Organization has provided Israel with some $5 billion in investment capital for the nation's economic growth.

This report traces the scope of that growth and it demonstrates that it would be impossible to conceive of the Israel of today without the vital support of Israel Bonds.

The Beginning

The end of the War of Independence found the new nation in a state of economic exhaustion. Upon the declaration of Independence the gates of Israel swung wide to receive tens of thousands of Holocaust survivors who poured into the country from Displaced Persons Camps in Europe and the British Detention Camps of Cyprus, doubling the existing population to more than 1 million.

Still expected were more than 100,000 Jews from Iraq and North Africa. Tent cities (ma'abarot) had been thrown up to provide primitive shelters. Food was scarce and severely rationed. The government had been stripped of foreign-currency reserves to pay for vital imports. Adequate employment opportunities for newcomers did not exist, and the ravaged economy could not generate growth. Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion turned to Jewish communities overseas for help.

The answer to both immediate and long-range needs for solving the crisis was to launch a drive to mobilize investment capital abroad in the form of loans to help develop and expand the economy.

The Israel Bond Organization was launched by Ben-Gurion in Madison Square Garden in 1951 on the third anniversary of Israel's statehood when the Independence Issue of State of Israel Bonds was launched.

That was the beginning. Since then, the partnership between Israel and the investors in Bonds has produced progress almost too extensive to be reduced to statistics. It is possible to summarize, however, some major advances made with the help of Israel Bond funds and read the growth of the Bond organization and of Israel itself.

Parade of Progress

1951 — Expansion of the deepwater port at Haifa and construction of a new harbour at the mouth of the Kishon River. (Since 1948 the fledgling fleet of eight vessels has grown to more than 100 ships that carry Israeli products to ports around the world.)

Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion with Ambassador Abba Eban and Secretary of State Dean Acheson, May, 1951.

1952 — New Installations built on the shores of the Dead Sea to extract billions of tons of magnesium chloride, salt, potassium chloride, magnesium bromide and calcium chloride. The Dead Sea Works provided the basis for a large-scale, chemical fertilizer manufacturing industry in Israel. With further expansion projects through the years provided by Israel Bond revenues, potash production has climbed to 1.2 million tons annually, and bromide to 40,000 tons — nearly one-tenth of the world supply, making Israel the world's largest exporter of bromine and its derivatives. By 1977 the Dead Sea complex reached an export figure of $70 million.

1953 — Construction of the road from Beersheba to Sdom. This made possible the transportation of mineral wealth from the Dead Sea to Beersheba, then by rail to Haifa for export. The official opening of the road was attended by Israel Bond leaders from Chicago as a way of pointing up Israel Bonds' share of making it possible.

1954 — Modern installation for extracting copper cement is constructed 15 miles north of Eilat near King Solomon's ancient mines. The sale of the Development Issue of Israel Bonds was launched.

1955 — The largest single economic-development project ever carried out in Israel, due largely to the confidence generated by the steady development of Israel Bonds, is attempted. This entailed construction of the National Water Carrier, completed in subsequent years, which brought 450,000 acres of farmland under irrigation and made intensive agriculture possible. As a result, Israel became nearly entirely self-sufficient in production of agricultural food products and industrial crops, with a growing surplus resulting in nearly $400-million in agricultural exports for 1977.

1956 — After the Sinai Campaign opened the Straits of Tiran, Eilat's port was expanded to handle the new maritime trade with East Africa, Australia, New Zealand and other countries in Asia and the Far East.

1957 — An eight-inch steel pipeline was laid from Eilat to Beersheba to provide a large-scale, reliable supply of oil for an increasing number of electric-power stations and to supply raw material for the Haifa refineries. Subsequently, this was replaced with a 16-inch pipeline which was also extended to the Mediterranean coast at Ashkelon.

1958 — A new highway was constructed from Eilat through the Arava to Beersheba linking the country's road network. This was an effective alternative to the Suez Canal, barred to Israeli shipping. At the First International Mobilization Conference for Bonds, held in Israel in August, Bond leaders inaugurated construction of the rail extension to Dimona, the first stage in the Beersheba-Eilat railroad.

1959 — A new oil terminal was raised in Tel Aviv along with a six-inch pipeline connecting the terminal to the Haifa refineries. The terminal had facilities for efficient and safe handling of a distribution tanker-truck fleet. The sale of the Second Development Issue of Israel Bonds is launched.

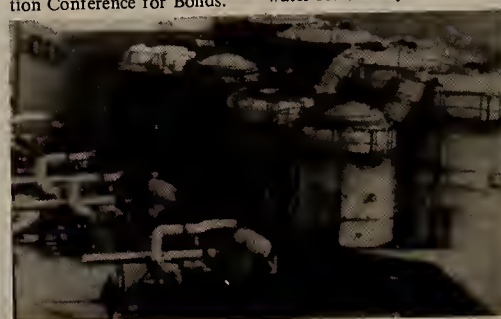

1960 — Dimona, populated largely by new immigrants, became the center of a large-scale textile industry and a large nuclear research center. The establishment of the center drew an influx of well-educated and highly motivated people that lent variety and stability to Dimona's population.

1961 — The development town of Ashdod became the nucleus for a new deepwater seaport needed to accommodate the steady growth of foreign trade, growing production from the Dead Sea Works and a growing number of agricultural settlements. The 10th anniversary of the Israel Bond Campaign was marked in August by the second International Mobilization Conference for Bonds.

1962 — Arad is founded in the heart of the Negev, east of Beersheba, designed to create an urban center under controlled and ideal conditions. Arad has developed into one of the country's finest resort areas and the home of an extensive complex of chemical industries.

1963 — A water desalination plant built in Eilat now provides most of the fresh water for the city.

1964 — The first Jewish settlement, Carmiel, rises in the Western Galilee and develops into a large industrial zone. The Third Development Issue of Israel Bonds is launched.

1965 — The railroad extension from Beersheba to Dimona is completed, and off-loading facilities for products from the Dead Sea Works are constructed. The increasing tonnage of Israeli mineral and chemical wealth goes by rail to the industrialized north of the country, or via the new port at Ashdod, to the export markets of Europe. Construction on this extension has been inaugurated during the 1958 Bond Conference.

1966 — The effort to build up export potential resulted in a concentration on sophisticated, science-based industries, particularly in electronics. Experienced, highly skilled people, many of them newcomers from the Soviet Union and developed Western countries, together with Israelis, provided the country with the human resources to develop industries that have gained ever-growing markets abroad — and also to supply Israel's growing needs in defense and medicine. In 1966 the sale of the Development

1967 — Expansion of petrochemical industry financed by Israel Bonds.

1968 — One of the nation's major power stations is constructed at Ashdod. The Second Development Investment Issue of Israel Bonds is launched.

1969 — A chemical industry established at Arad became the fastest-growing industry in the country, with earnings of more than $2-billion annually and exports worth more than $270-million in 1977.

1970 — Construction begins on a second oil refinery (now completed) in Ashdod capable of processing four million tons of petroleum annually. The cornerstone for this refinery was laid at the International Conference for Israel Bonds marking the 20th anniversary of the Israel Bond campaign.

1971 — El Al becomes one of the first international Airlines to introduce the Boeing 747 into trans-Atlantic service. More than two million passengers and nearly 60,000 tons of freight pass through Ben-Gurion International Airport annually. The Fourth and Fifth Development Issues of Israel Bonds are initiated.

Investment Issue of Israel Bonds was inaugurated.

1972 — Israel Bond sales pass the $2-billion mark. A satellite ground station is put into operation in the Valley of Elah to help meet the growing requirements of expanded telecommunications systems. New challenges are posed in creating suitable jobs for Soviet Jews beginning to arrive in Israel in increasing numbers.

1973 — As a result of the continuous development effort over the years, made possible with the aid of Israel Bond dollars, the economy is able to withstand the surprise Yom Kippur attack and demonstrate the resiliency needed in order to maintain the country's civilian life at near normal despite dislocation of most of its services and mobilization of most of its manpower.

1974 — Recovery begins with construction of a large container facility at the Kishon Harbor of Haifa Port to handle an increasing number of container shipments. In January, during the Prime Minister's Israel Bond Conference, the Prime Minister's Club was founded. The following month, the unprecedented $1-Billion Reconstruction and Development Issue of Israel Bonds was authorized for sale.

1975 — A new section of the expanded oil-tank storage farm, at the southern terminal of the oil pipeline in Eilat is dedicated. Construction of a new section of the railroad to Nahal Zin, where extensive phosphate fields were discovered, is inaugurated. In 1975, sales of Israel Bonds passed the $3 billion mark.

1976 — The large industrial park at Tefen in central Galilee is launched at the Prime Minister's Conference marking the 25th Anniversary of the Israel Bond campaign.

1977 — Construction of the huge 1,400 kw power station at Hadera is inaugurated. This will be the keystone of the nation's spreading attention to alternate sources of energy and lessening dependence on oil. In 1977, the Fifth Development Issue of Israel Bonds was inaugurated.

1978 — This is a year of reaffirming dedication to the future development of Israel and its people through Israel Bond campaigns. A specific expression of this is the inauguration at Latrun of the Jerusalem — Tel Aviv superhighway.

The year has also seen a marked resumption of economic growth. Aided by the continuous flow of Israel Bond investment funds, expected to reach the $4-billion mark during the year, a period of economic stagnation appears to have ended with a forecast growth of six percent in the Gross National Product and continuation of the increase in exports, which has already reached 62.6 percent of the imports figure for 1977. This is the year in which Israel's economic architects began planning for the development which would be possible in a Middle East at peace.

1979 — The signing of a peace treaty between Israel and Egypt in March heralds a new era in the troubled history of the Middle East. There are, however, great challenges as Israel faces the 1980's. In order to comply with the treaty terms, Israel must redeploy and resettle military and civilian populations from the Sinai to the Negev. The Israel Bond Leadership Conference in Toronto accepted the responsibility of selling $525 million in Bonds in 1980 — the largest single-year goal in the Organization's history — to help develop the Negev and at the same time to assure Israel's ongoing economic growth.

1980 — As Israel Bonds celebrates its 30th Anniversary, we can look back to many years of economic achievement but, as the 30th Anniversary International Leadership Conference convenes in Mexico City, the atmosphere is one not of complacency but of anticipation. The Organization is gearing up to meet some of the greatest challenges in its history, not only in 1980 but in the decade ahead as well.

And so, the Bond Organization looks ahead to new challenges and responsibilities. The first thirty years are only a beginning. Israel Bonds was always there in the past; it will continue to stand by Israel as the nation plans and builds for its future — a future of peace.

$1 Billion Goal for '81

MEXICO CITY, September 4 — Israel Bond leaders from North America, meeting in Mexico City at the Bond Organization's 30th Anniversary International Conference, were called upon to provide a minimum of one billion dollars by the end of 1981 to help assure the continuation of Israel's economic growth.

This session was held exactly 30 years after the convening of the Jerusalem Conference which founded the Israel Bond program and whose early guiding spirits were David Ben-Gurion and Golda Meir. Mrs. Sonia Kizell represented the Ottawa Israel Bond Organization at the Conference.

In a keynote address to the 400 delegates at the opening luncheon session, Dr. Yaacov Ne'eman, director general of the Israel Ministry of Finance, cited positive signs in Israel's economy in 1980 as a result of the Government's economic policy but at the same time he emphasized the vital need for Israel Bond funds "to assure the continuation of our economic upturn."

Dr. Ne'eman said that during the past 30 years the Israel Bond Organization has been an indispensable instrument in developing Israel's advanced industrial society.

"Israel Bonds helped create the economic foundations for the historic ingathering of hundreds of thousands of immigrants," he declared.

Responding to Dr. Ne'eman's call, Sam Rothberg, President of the Israel Bond Organization, asserted: "In our three decades of helping to build Israel, Bonds have always met each challenge as it arose. We now commit ourselves to the task of attaining the first half billion dollars by the end of this year and to completing the goal by matching that figure in 1981."

Mr. Rothberg reported that the Israel Bond Organization in the 30 years of its existence has been the primary source of investment capital for Israel.

Judaism wins on singles mission

"All my life I denied my Jewishness. I never understood the deep ties between Judaism, Israel and my own life. On this mission, for the first time, I was proud to be a Jew. I'll never make light of my Jewishness again."

In a meeting room of a Tel Aviv hotel, a 24-year old woman, her voice trembling with emotion, rose to announce her first gift to the United Jewish Appeal. She was followed to the microphone by 93 other young men and women, most visiting Israel for the first time as members of the first American UJA Singles Mission.

Before the mission, these declarations of commitment would have been impossible. The majority of the young men and women, ranging in age from 21 to 46, were out of touch with organized Jewish life and federation activities in their 20 home communities.

The concept of a Singles Mission was initiated at the UJA National Young Leadership Conference in Washington, D.C. last Spring. The mission's co-Chairmen — Ellen Brachman, Chicago, National Mission's Chairman for the Young Women's Leadership Cabinet, and Carl Kaplan, Washington, D.C., Region II Chairman for the Young Leadership Cabinet — were convinced that the UJA could "turn on" a group of enthusiastic but uninvolved young Jewish singles by innovative programming. The idea caught on among other singles attending the Conference, whose recruitment efforts resulted in capacity participation.

The group's itinerary covered the length and breadth of Israel from Jerusalem to Golan, from the Galilee to Massada, and included special briefings by high government officials as well as informal encounters with a cross-section of Israel's people from children at a UJA-supported day care center to olim (newcomers) at an absorption center.

Three separate hospitality programs — in Jerusalem with a singles professional group, in Haifa with single male and female naval officers, and a pioneer kibbutz — gave mission participants a chance to meet and get to know their Israeli counterparts. At the Jerusalem event, the young Israelis were so eager to meet the UJA group that 150 came to an event to which only 50 had been invited.

At a border settlement the group was overwhelmed with kindness and hospitality. "They are struggling just to start — but they strung up brightly colored lights and prepared a picnic dinner for us. The whole kibbutz came out to welcome us, all 25 of them. We easily outnumbered them," Kaplan said.

Mission participants, evenly divided between men and women, represented a wide range of trades and professions, including attorneys, teachers, social workers, bankers, doctors, sales people, travel agents, engineers, secretaries, and computer analysts.

"Our fund raising efforts were tremendously successful," said Mission leader Ellen Brachman. "There's no doubt that the mission experience succeeded in changing the attitudes of most of the participants. They started out unaffiliated and unconcerned Jews. They returned committed and caring."

Talmud Torah off to a sweet start

The Talmud Torah Afternoon School began its school year on Sunday, September 7, 1980. It was a very busy morning with all students from Kindergarten to Grade 7, including Special Education, hurrying to their classes for 9:30 a.m. The bell rang and a hush fell over the halls. Classes had begun. Teachers paid particular attention to the holiday of Rosh Hashanah which was to occur in a few days. Students reviewed the laws and prayers which are an intrinsic part of the Rosh Hashanah holiday. The younger grades also participated in making holiday crafts. The school's Parents Association prepared apples and honey as a treat for all the children. The special blessings were recited as the children dipped their apples in honey and welcomed a sweet, new year. With greetings of Shanah Tovah to all, classes were dismissed at 11:45 a.m. Grades 8 and Extension I

If you are in Grade 8 or higher and interested in furthering your Jewish education, the Talmud Torah Afternoon

School was just the classes for you. Grade 8 and Extension I meet every Wednesday evening from 7 to 9 p.m. at 1400 Coldrey Avenue. Subjects for Grade 8 include Hebrew and the Holocaust. Subjects for Extension I include Jewish Literature and Hebrew. The classes combine for the study of the Haggadah. There is ample opportunity for discussion of ideas. Classes began on September 9th, however, we are still accepting registration.

If you are interested in any of the classes in the Talmud Torah Afternoon School — from Kindergarten to Extension I and Special Education — please contact Mrs. Elizabeth Wolynetz 725-3450 (home) or 728-1759 (school).

SIMCHAT TORAH RALLY

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 5 AT 2:00 P.M.

Meet at Strathcona Park, corner Laurier Ave. and Charlotte St., and then on to the Soviet Embassy

Join our courageous Soviet brethren as they dance by the thousands in the streets of Moscow and Leningrad in celebration of Simchat Torah

Sponsored by Congregations Agudath Israel, Beth Shalom, Machzikei Hadas, Temple Israel, Young Israel and Adath Shalom in association with the Ottawa Soviet Jewry Committee of the Jewish Community Council.

Please come and take part. Your presence is important.

Meaningful West End Services

The first High Holiday Services held at Beth Shalom West, the satellite facility of Congregation Beth Shalom, were a success, according to Rabbi Basil Herring, Rabbi of Beth Shalom. Overflow crowds were present to experience the prayer and rituals in an atmosphere that was surprisingly conducive to the High Holiday experience.

The organizers of the services, under the leadership of Julian Lewin, expressed their satisfaction with the attendance, and with the positive reactions to Rabbi Robert Hirt of New York, Cantor Benjy Zbar, and Elliot Malomet, for the polished and enthusiastic manner in which services were conducted.

With this major hurdle achieved, Beth Shalom West recently embarked on a series of events, to set the schedule for the year in motion. For Sukkot, a large Sukkah was constructed at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Hyman Rabinovitch, permitting member families to have full access to services and programs in the sukkah; during Simchat Torah members participated in the celebrations at Beth Shalom; and the third meeting of the Chavurah group that combines social and cultural functions at various area homes on a monthly basis, was conducted right after the Holidays.

Regular Sabbath Services begin Saturday October 11 at Sir John A. McDonald High School off Greenbank Rd., at 9:15 a.m. Services will be conducted every other week thereafter, i.e. October 25, November 8, 22, etc. Junior Congregation, babysitting, and a light kiddush will be a regular feature of these Sabbath services.

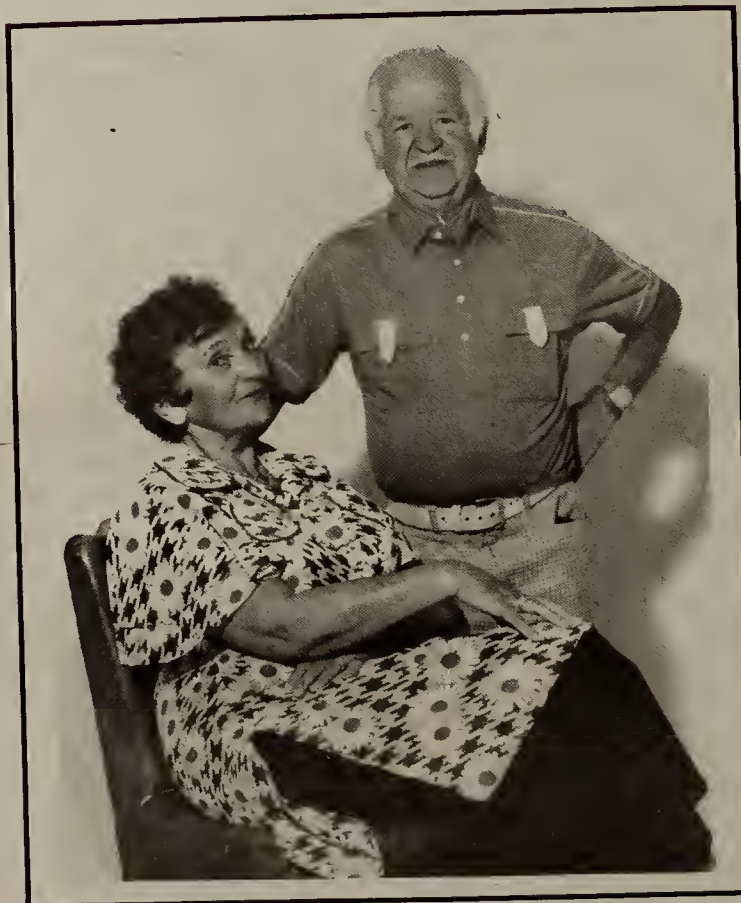

The first Friday evening Family Sabbath Meal is scheduled for October 24 at 6 p.m. For a nominal fee, there will be a short service followed by a full meal incorporating all of the traditional delights, for young and old alike, under the leadership of Rabbi Herring.

Buoyed by these developments and prospects, Beth Shalom West will be continuing its Membership Campaign, to reach out to those who might not yet have had an opportunity to become familiar with the satellite. Special pro-rated memberships are under consideration.

For further information, or to be put on the mailing list to receive the regular Newsletter, interested persons may call the synagogue office at 232-3501, or Julian Lewin at 828-0286.

Jewish Community Centre News

The J.C.C. of Ottawa is a Beneficiary Agency of the United Jewish Appeal

The J.C.C. is for you and me

By Morris and Myra Presser

It seems like it was only yesterday (but in fact, it's been over 5 years now) that a young Jewish family moved to its new home in Ottawa. Originally from Montreal, we had spent a year and a half in London, Ontario and a year in Hamilton, Ontario before we were on the move once again, transferred by Morris's employer to Ottawa. For those of you who have not had the "experience" of being on the move, let us assure you that each transfer brought with it, the highs of a new promotion but also the lows of leaving friends and relatives for places and people unknown. Although we had received warm welcomes in both London and Hamilton, the Ottawa experience was one that will stay with us forever and we thought we might share our feelings with you.

Arriving in Ottawa in 1975, Morris plunged into his new job and buried himself in the workload, meeting business related people, while Myra was left to arrange the social activities. After living in Ottawa for 3 years, we had made several friends, but had not really yet felt a part of the Ottawa Jewish Community. Morris joined B'Nai B'Rith, Myra joined Pioneer Women, as a family we joined a synagogue and even though we both became active members, it wasn't until, at the urging of some good friends to join the Jewish Community Centre, that our community relationship began. Oh, we had been to functions at the J.C.C., dances, parties, etc. and we had also heard all the complaints, that the building is not modern, it lacks, it's too far from home, etc., but after having lived in Montreal, where the population is too large to have a J.C.C., London, where there was no J.C.C. and Hamilton, where the J.C.C. did not have enough members to operate to its potential, we soon were amazed to find the value and enjoyment of being family members of the Ottawa J.C.C.

We have found activities for all of us to enjoy. Cindy, our 6 year old daughter, has attended day camp, Sunday Funday as well as the brand new Brownie Pact. Steve, our four year old son, has attended the Sunday Funday and as well, both our children have enjoyed many parties for their friends at the J.C.C.

Morris has enjoyed and certainly benefited by using the health club facilities and racquetball courts and subsequently has lost 60 lbs. Myra has enjoyed the fitness classes and as well has fulfilled a childhood dream of becoming a Tawnee Leader of the new Brownie Pact.

But most important of all, we found out that the J.C.C. was where it's at. All those mothers and fathers who complained about the modern facility that was needed close to home, still bring their children to the J.C.C. because they know there always seems to be something on.

There are many programs for kids: camp, Sunday programs like the Health & Fitness Fair, Arts Alive, etc. and for the adults: meetings, parties, dances, shows, the health club, etc. In fact, our children frequently wake up and ask if it's Sunday so they can go down to the J.C.C. and participate in the Sunday Funday activities.

For the Presser family, the J.C.C. has meant being part of the Jewish Community, we still work for our charitable organizations, we still are members of a synagogue and our daughter attends Hillel. But we support the J.C.C. as well because we, as consumers, know a good product and, as well, we have a commitment to keep the J.C.C. strong and alive for Jewish life in Ottawa today and in the future. It's a matter of economics, more members means more money, more money means better programs and facilities.

Our message is simple — the Pressers feel that "The J.C.C. is a place for you and for me!" It has worked for us and it can work for you — become a member today.

DROR begins new program year

Friday, Sept. 5 marked the commencement of another successful season for Dror-Ottawa. The program was a smashing success for the 70 plus crowd who attended Dror that Friday night.

The program started off with the traditional lighting of the Shabbat candles. This was followed by a poem read by Eden Goldberg on the Yom Kippur war, commemorating that event's 7th anniversary. To start the excitement generating through the room, Steven Eichler led the Chanichim in-choruses of Ba Shana Haba'ah and other favorite Israeli tunes.

It was now time for the Chanichim to rest back as that star-studded cast of madrichim put on an entertaining play. The play was followed by a Rosh Hashana presentation led by Jon Gencer, Mark Blevis, and Stephanie Engel. After, honey cake (for a sweet new year) was given out, as the Chanichim reminisced over some Camp Gesher slides. The excitement grew as everyone spotted new and/or old friends from this past summer.

Dror, continuing on a hot streak, put on a program on Saturday, September 13 for the older Shichvah. Shichvah Bet Enjoyed some games and had a lot of fun. The evening culminated with the movie "Star Trek". A good time was had by all.

For more information on Dror-Ottawa feel free to contact Allan Bronstein, 225-5576, Jerry Eichler, 722-5734, or Shaoul Webber, 225-6584 (our Shaliach).

Goldie Shabinsky Fund established

The Board of Directors of the Ottawa Jewish Community Endowment and Bequest Foundation are pleased to acknowledge the establishment of "The Goldie Shabinsky Memorial Fund" by her husband, family and friends.

Mrs. Shabinsky came to Ottawa from Russia in 1923 at the age of 13. In 1931, she married Maurice Shabinsky and for many years worked together with him in their catering business. Always concerned about others, she was totally dedicated to her husband and devoted to her children. She was an active member of Pioneer Women-Naamat, and was involved in Hillel Lodge Ladies Auxiliary, Beth Shalom Sisterhood and the Golden Age Club.

Unfortunately, Mrs. Shabinsky was ill for much of the last ten years of her life and passed away February 15, 1980. There are three children, a son Sol, and two daughters, Eileen Landau and Gloria Trainoff. She is also survived by ten grandchildren and one brother, Harry Shinder.

Goldie Shabinsky

The Goldie Shabinsky Memorial Fund is open-ended and can be added to at any time. The capital will be invested in perpetuity and the income each year will be used for charitable and educational purposes.

Network conference

The Central Region (Ontario) of the North American Jewish Students Network-Canada will hold its annual conference at Camp Reena during the weekend of October 10-12, 1980, in conjunction with the Canadian Universities Bureau of the Canadian Zionist Federation (CUB).

Network conferences are famous for combining high level programming (films, lectures, discussions), great food and a super social programme. These regional conferences afford the opportunity to young men and women studying on various campuses in Ontario to meet each other in the atmosphere of a "relaxed country retreat".

Network's regional conference is designed to bring together Jewish students from diverse backgrounds and levels of activity, to interest and educate them about Jewish issues and campus organizing and to promote co-ordinated campus programmes.

Some of the topics that will be dealt with include "Small Campus Life and its problems", "Israel and Aliyah", Jews in Ethiopia, the Holocaust, Cults and Missionary Groups, Student Activism in the '80s, Effective Publicity for Campuses, etc.

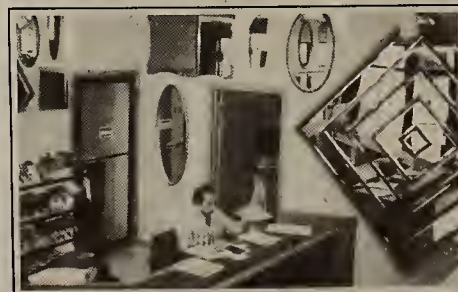

Speakers will include Emmanuel Schochet on missionary group recruitment, Sabena Citron relating experiences of the Holocaust, Simcha Jacobovici, the former chairman of North American Jewish Students Network speaking on "Issues of the '80s" and Martin Krossel, speaking on the problems of integration of the handicapped into the Jewish community.

Registration is $25.00 and application forms are available from Leib Zeisler or from Network and CUB, 750 Spadina Ave., Toronto, Ontario, M5S 2J2, (416) 928-9160 or (416) 968-2891.

Survivors to gather

World Gathering of Jewish Holocaust Survivors to be held in Israel in 1981

A unique event of major historical significance to the Jewish people is scheduled to take place in Israel from June 15 to 18, 1981.

Symbolizing the survival of both the Jewish people and Israel, it is expected that the Conference will draw thousands of survivors and their families from all corners of the world. It is being held under the patronage of the Prime Minister of Israel, and is governed by an Executive Committee, composed of Holocaust survivors. In addition, an International Leadership Committee will serve in an advisory capacity, and local committees to stimulate attendance have already been formed in a number of cities.

The aim of the World
Gathering is to call attention to the legacy of the Holocaust, and to serve notice to the entire world that such an event must never be repeated. Above all it will be an opportunity for survivors from all over the world to meet face to face and share their common memories of the past, achievements of the present, and aspirations for the future.

Among the many meaningful events that are being planned for the four-day conference are an inaugural mass meeting and memorial service on the grounds of Yad Vashem, a march of survivors through the streets of Jerusalem to the Western Wall and the construction of a monument of rocks supplied by the delegates from their respective communities.

Travel arrangements are already in progress in a number of cities. Registration fee is $100.00 for adults and $50.00 for children of Holocaust survivors. Some inquiries have been received in Ottawa, and registration forms and brochures are available at the Jewish Community Centre. For information, call Freda Frankel, 232-7306.

The organizers of the "Oldtimers' Reunion" on October 19 are indebted to Earl Butovsky for this priceless photograph. It will be part of the exhibit being prepared especially for the Reunion which will evoke memories of "the good old days" in Ottawa's Jewish history. Believe it or not, it was taken in 1929 on the steps of the old Talmud Torah building at 171 George St.,

now site of a Salvation Army hostel. Shown with their teacher
Mr. Moses Krantzberg, are: front row, left to right: Isadore
Rose, Moses Steinberg, Lewis Moses, Jack Pleet and the late Moe Slack. Second row, left to right: David Appotive, Albert Rivers, David Monson, Joseph Lief, Moe Polowin and Earl Butovsky.
